

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates generally to sets of digital antibodies directed against short epitopes, and use thereof in methods for protein analysis.